INDIA METEOROLOGICAL DEPARTMENT

Memorandum regarding the probable amount of monsoon rainfall in 1950.

Previous weather conditions over certain parts of the world enable us to form an estimate, within somewhat wide limits, of the monsoon rainfall in India during the period June to September. These predictions aim to pass a statistical test of 80 per cent. success, or, in other words aim at being correct four times out of five on the average over a long series of years.

The data used are given in section 2 below; these are followed by notes on the relevant inferences that may be drawn from them.

2. DATA

Snow in the mountain region northwest of India.—Available snow-fall reports indicate that over the western Himalayas as a whole the accumulations at the end of May were above normal.

Java.—The monthly rainfall departures from October 1949 to February 1950 were —72 per cent., +46 per cent., —46 per cent., —16 per cent and —1 per cent. respectively.

Equatorial pressure.—Pressure was in defect by 0.050" at Port Darwin in March and April, was in defect by 0.005" at Seychelles in February and March and in defect by 0.037" at Batavia from January to April.

South Rhodesia.—Rainfall from October 1949 to April 1950 was in defect by 2.0".

South America.—Pressure departures were as follows:—

Buenos Aires. Cordoba. Santiago
(Chile).

April 1950	... —1.8 mm.	—1.8 mm.	0 mm.
May 1950	... —0.5 mm.	—1.5 mm.	—0.2 mm.

Aleutian Islands.—The monthly temperature departures in degrees Fahrenheit at Unalaska from December 1949 to April 1950 were +3.0, +5.4, —1.2, +1.8 and +2.8 respectively.

3. INFERENCES FROM THE INFORMATION.

For the Peninsula taken to consist of Gujarat, Saurashtra and Kutch, the Konkan, Deccan (Desh), Madhya Pradesh, Hyderabad and the Coastal (Andhra Desa) the available factors found to be of most importance are, in the order of decreasing reliability, rainfall in South Rhodesia, pressure in South America, temperature at Unalaska and rainfall in Java. Of the factors, South Rhodesia rainfall is moderately favourable, Java rainfall is very favourable and South America pressure and Unalaska temperature are very unfavourable. This year the factors are conflicting but statistical analysis indicates that there is a four to one chance that the monsoon rainfall during June to September 1950 in the Peninsula will be between 84 and 111 per cent. of the normal.

For Northwest India (taken to consist of the west Uttar Pradesh, the Punjab (I) (including PEPSU and Delhi) and Rajasthan) the factors used are, in the order of decreasing reliability, South Rhodesia rainfall, South American pressure, Equatorial pressure, temperature at Unalaska and snow accumulations in the western Himalayas. Of these South Rhodesia rainfall is moderately favourable, Equatorial pressure very favourable, Unalaska temperature moderately unfavourable, Himalayan snow accumulation slightly unfavourable and South American pressure very unfavourable. Here also the factors are conflicting but statistical analysis indicates that the monsoon rainfall in Northwest India during June to September 1950 will not be below 85 per cent. of the normal.

4. SUMMARY OF FORECAST.

The monsoon rainfall during June to September 1950 is likely to be normal or slightly below normal in the Peninsula and not far from normal in Northwest India.

Poona,
The 7th June, 1950.
